Does saddle fit matter? Yes !

It's easy enough to diagnose a saddle-fit problem if the horse has open sores, white hairs or muscle atrophy but he can still be pain even when there are no outward signs. Is your horse for example showing any of the following?

- Puts his ears back when you bring out the saddle
- Fidgets when being mounted
- Rushing or refusing jumps
- Reluctant to canter

Many riders make the mistake of interpreting behaviour problems as an unwillingness to perform.

Is there someone like you who understands the importance of a well - fitted saddle? If so, introduce them to Crossfields Saddlery and I will give you £10 off your next saddle check or fitting.
